A recent study commissioned by the campaign group Sleeping Giants has uncovered how White Rose of Yorkshire has been attempting to drive the truth about climate change underground. The charity claims to protect the well-being and happiness of children, yet uses deceptive advertising to avoid acknowledging that burning fossil fuels will inevitably harm the planet. White Rose of Yorkshire's advertisements are designed to leave adults in a state of confusion and to make them feel that they can simultaneously be 'responsible' parents and live in a world where all children can be happy, healthy and well-adjusted. The charity has made two attempts so far to force its message behind the concealment of a 'keywords'-based word filter. Although the charity is against the charge and counters that the keyword filter is as crude as an outright ban, the court simply does not see it this way. The court saw the word filter as an attempt to censor the content. Further, the court found that the way in which the word filter is employed was at odds with the policy set forth in White Rose of Yorkshire's own charter. One of the findings of the court was that the word filter treated all the content on the platform equally, irrespective of whether the content was advertising or a fundraiser. This appeared to be at odds with the policy set forth in the charter, as the charter states that it aims to be free of political interference from commercial interests. The court found that the word filter was one-sided because it accused "the defendant of being a source of 'advertising content' without being 'consistent with the purpose and activities of the defendant'". The words 'adult' and 'advertising content' are used interchangeably in the policy." The court asked the court to make a determination as to whether White Rose of Yorkshire's wording and activities actually "indicate the illegal censorship" which the court deemed that they may. The court opted to remove the word filter, and advised the defendant to do so as well. As they are not allowed to use the filter, they are left with an admittedly "difficult choice" as to what to do with the content on their platform. Even though they are now able to see the advertisements, the word filter has not prevented White Rose of Yorkshire from forcing its opinions on its audience. White Rose of Yorkshire's advertising policy states that "it is the policy of White Rose of
